Don't Fast-Forward Your Way to Easter

By BOB SETZER JR.

Okay. True confession time: Bambi and I grew up as passionate fans of Tar Heels basketball.

This is a passion that has tempered with the years (at least for me!). Throughout my ministry, I've operated under the premise, "Love the one you're with." So when we lived in Virginia, we pulled for UVa; when we lived in Georgia, we pulled for Georgia Tech (as for UGA, don't even ask); and now that we are in Winston-Salem, we pull for Wake Forest. At least until and unless one of those teams goes up against UNC. Then Bambi's and my loyalties are, shall we say, complicated.

Recently, I had a full Sunday that included an afternoon trip to Greensboro to attend to some family business. Because of that, Bambi and I could not watch the UNC-Washington game in the NCAA Tournament, so I recorded it.

But by the time we got a chance to watch the game, late Sunday evening, we knew that (1) Carolina won and (2) it wasn't much of a contest. As a result, we didn't bother watching the game. For me, as for most people, watching a recorded game--when one already knows the outcome--is not much fun.

Every year during Holy Week and Easter, the church faces something of the same issue: we already know how the story will end. Unlike the first disciples, utterly crushed and defeated by Jesus' suffering and death, we can breeze past the hard parts. The ugly turn of events that begins on Palm Sunday and leads to controversy, resistance, Jesus' Gethsemane struggle, the Last Supper, Judas' kiss, and Jesus' arrest, beating, and humiliation--and ultimately, his God-forsaken death on a cross--are unsavory parts of the story we might as well skip. Why not just show up on Easter Sunday to admire the flower-draped cross in front of the sanctuary, sing and hear the glorious Easter music, and revel in the glad cry, "The Lord is risen! The Lord is risen indeed!"

Well, one reason is that many of us, or people we love, are living the challenge and even horrors of our own "holy week," times when the world we know and love turns against us. This year, like every year, some are facing illness or disability, job loss, a fraying marriage, a grief that won't heal, or a friend or loved one perishing in the opioid crisis. For folks facing that kind of crisis, Easter isn't just a feel-good holiday. Easter is the only hope they have. The promise that a dead-and-gone Jesus rose defiantly with the life and love of God, radiant within him, to be with us when we need him most, is all that keeps them going.

So this Easter, try not to fast-forward to the good parts of the story. Instead, join your fellow pilgrims at Knollwood on Palm Sunday, Maundy Thursday, and Good Friday (see front cover), and enter into Jesus' struggle and despair and maybe, your own. Then when Easter finally arrives on Sunday morning, you'll know in the depths of your bones why Easter matters so much. And not just to you but to all the world.

Blessings,

Bob

For some, Easter isn't just a feel-good holiday. It's the only hope they have.

Introducing the New KBC Website: knollwood.org

By SANDRA BOYETTE

A redesigned component of Knollwood's communications made its debut in late March.

The new KBC website, under construction since late last summer, features a user-friendly home page with easily navigable pathways to essential information. Among the improved features are:

- Prominent descriptions of Knollwood's identity, how we worship, and our missions outreach, to give individuals looking for a church an accurate and inviting sense of our congregation.
- A comprehensive calendar so that users can quickly see all activities, with the option to subscribe.
- A format that is accessible across all electronic devices.
- Concise information about our ministries.

Sermon archives, online giving, and space scheduling are all part of the new website.

Using results of the 2018 churchwide communications survey, an enlarged visual identity task force developed a detailed description of the ideal KBC website and shared it with agencies being invited to submit proposals. M Creative, the local firm that developed the new visual identity in 2017, was selected to revamp the site, and KBC member Forrest Causby supervised the process for M Creative. Members of the church staff and the task force researched other church sites and recommended "best practices" to support the process, then reviewed structure and content as it was created.

For staff, one of the significant advantages of the new site is the ease of updating, an improvement over the more complicated editing requirements of the older site.

A plan for a new church directory is being considered, and members can expect more information about it in coming months. For now, members can take the following steps to access the existing online directory:

- On the new website, click on "Directory" at the top of the home page.
- Enter your username and password for ShelbyNext (the site you may already use to check your giving record). If you don't know your log-in credentials, please contact Lisa Ehlers (frontdesk@knollwood.org), who will have the system e-mail the information to you.
- You will see your profile and giving record on the screen.
- To see other members' contact information (and, in some cases, photos), click on the Directory button. To find someone, you may enter a name in the search field at the top of the directory screen or skip through page numbers at the bottom.

We believe this new website will more effectively convey our church's ministry to others and we hope you agree.

Music Ministry/Transition/ Search Committee Report

By JANET RAY

Committee Chair

Evidence abounds that the search for the next KBC Music Minister is Spirit led. As we have reported before, the committee is excited by the strength of the candidates who are interested in joining the ministry team at Knollwood. As our work moves smoothly forward we are narrowing our discussions with the top candidates. If our process proceeds as we anticipate, we will be able to present a candidate to the church for a vote this spring.

Ministerial searches are not like most church tasks. Every single member of the committee must work hard on each task and take great care to preserve the confidentiality of the potential candidates. Besides the frequent meetings (sometimes weekly) committee members work quietly to review reams of material, talk with references and interview candidates.

The Music Ministry Search committee has worked together since last March, first listening to our members to determine what attributes of leadership were most desired in our next Music Minister and then working to find candidates that possessed those attributes. Pray for us as we approach the final stages of our work. Share an encouraging word with our members: Susan Edge, Ben Floyd, Ben Heinsohn, Mark Jensen, Bill Leathers, Rebecca Neiberg, Beth Sanders and with Bob Setzer who has been an active member of the committee every step of the way.

Administrative Transition At KBC

"Patience, please!"

Now that Marlin Yoder has finished his work at Knollwood, we are entering a period of administrative transition that offers two challenges:

- Providing administrative support for all the church's ministries and activities in the interim
- Finding the right person to become our next Church Administrator

As to the first point, the staff and lay leadership of the church are working hard to keep things moving as smoothly as possible. That said, there will likely be a few mistakes along the way as we adjust to the challenges of this period. So please be forbearing and kind to staff members, committee chairs, and other KBC servant leaders who are doing their best to fill some very big administrator shoes. If you have concerns or questions, please direct those to our deacon chair, Mary Ann Davis at maryanncdavis@gmail.com.

As to the second point, John Boehme is working with Dr. Bob and a small search team to find Knollwood's next administrator. We have leads on some good candidates and expect to begin interviews soon. If you have questions about this process, please contact John at jmbo224@gmail.com.

Prayers for the Welfare of the City

As we make our way through Lent, some have been joining in shared practice of daily prayers for the welfare of our city and those who work, study, play and live all around us. If a local news article has recently prompted concern, or an encounter with a neighbor has stirred your heart, you may find in these prayers ways to express your desires and God's longings for our particular city. The prayer texts are online: www.knollwood.org, or <https://tinyurl.com/y35qp8zs>. Printed copies are available after worship and in the church office.

This urban mural on the corner of 6th and Liberty streets shows Winston-Salem in the 1930s, 1960s and today, with silhouette figures painting the mural. In 2010, Marianne DiNapoli-Mylet was joined by middle and high school students painting such murals in the People of Winston-Salem Art Reclamation (POWAR) program.

Valerie Glass of Triad Restorative Justice will be joined by teachers from the school system.

On Monday, May 6, we will hear from principals in local schools that have made significant progress improving student outcomes and reducing disparities in achievement. (Note the change from our usual Tuesday gathering to this one Monday).

Children's Easter Celebration

By CHRISSEY HARDY

Children's Ministry Associate

Our annual Easter Celebration for Children will be Saturday, April 20 at Knollwood. Weather permitting, we will gather in the courtyard (rain location: WCC) for lots of fun Easter games, crafts, stories, prizes and more. Children will finish the morning with a fun new twist on our Easter Egg Hunt. All participants will have a goody bag to take home.

This event is for kbc.kids, infants through fifth graders, as well as friends, neighbors, or grandchildren who may be in town for the holiday. We'd love for you to all join us as we celebrate Easter. We only ask that you register (<https://tinyurl.com/y242wvzo>) for the event (so we can have enough goodies for all). Don't forget to bring your baskets. Any youth or adults who are interested in helping to host this event should reach out to Jonna Yarbrough or Chrissy Hardy.

Gratitude for Children's Sunday

Thanks to our congregation for all the love and support you offered our children as they led worship on Children's Sunday. We were so proud of their confidence and maturity in this important leadership opportunity. We are grateful for a church who empowers and encourages children to take an active role in worship right from the start. Thank you also to the many adults who helped guide and teach these children in the weeks leading up to Children's Sunday. We're grateful for each of you.

The TTWS was asked to be videoed by WGHP-TV last week for their 6 PM news to show Knollwood TTWS support of the Wee Care Cereal Drive for Crisis Control. Our goal was to collect 200 boxes of cereal. As of March 26, 201 boxes have been donated. We are happy to have met and exceeded our goal with your support.

Missional Moments

Bolton Elementary Pantry

To donate to the food pantry: This month, we are collecting paper towels and household cleaning supplies. Place your donations in marked boxes at Knollwood (Bldgs. A and B).

To volunteer: The Bolton Elementary Pantry is open on the 2nd and 4th Tuesday each month from 1-6 P.M. Volunteers are needed to help set up each time the pantry is open and to assist clients with check-in and shopping. For more information or to volunteer, please e-mail Spence O'Neill at boltonpantry@gmail.com.

Bolton Partnership—Coming events

Let's support our friends at Bolton Elementary School by assisting with some end-of-year events. Volunteers are needed for a breakfast for faculty and staff on Wednesday, May 8; a picnic for tutors and students' families on Thursday, May 30; and the 5th-grade honors program at Knollwood on Friday, June 7. For information or to volunteer, e-mail Trina Jackson, trinahjackson@gmail.com, or Beth Fields, fieldsbfields@aol.com.

2018-19 St. Timothy's Women's Shelter

We showed up. We stayed awake (or not). We packed snack bags, served meals, and befriended guests. We played a small part in a key community partnership. From Saturday, Dec. 1, 2018 through Saturday, March 30, 2019, St Timothy's Episcopal Church once again partnered with local non-profit City with Dwellings to provide a low-barrier shelter to women experiencing homelessness in Winston-Salem. Last fall, we at Knollwood said we would cover many of the Thursday night volunteer slots. In doing so, we were humbled and enriched to support the special community and ministry that is created at St. Tim's, offering a warm, safe place to sleep to some of our most vulnerable neighbors during the four coldest months of the year.

Growing Recreation

By JOSH GODWIN

Minister of Youth and Recreation

Our recreation ministry at Knollwood has consistently grown since the opening of the WCC in 2017. While it is hard to believe that was almost two years ago, the signs of our growth since then are all around us. The building is a buzzing center of energy throughout the week, embodying both titles for its space: Wellness and Community.

Over the past two years, we have worked to establish a number of community partnerships to facilitate wellness for those surrounding Knollwood. Walking classes for those living with mobility challenges, Gentle Yoga sessions every week, and a steady stream of young people playing pick-up basketball are just a few ways that life comes into our space. It is exciting to be part of, and we hope to continue to see plenty of faces, both new and known, coming through those doors.

However, to help ensure this welcoming continues we must take some responsibility of our own. The Recreation Committee is working to identify folks who are willing to give a little bit of time throughout the week (Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday afternoons) to watch over the space and engage in the ministry of hospitality to our neighbors. The WCC is busiest in the mid-afternoon hours; the walking classes begin in earnest and young people leave school looking for a place to play pick-up basketball. If you are willing to give a few hours a month to serve our congregation and community by being a welcoming face in the WCC, please contact Josh (josh@knollwood.org) or Jerry Francis, chair of the Recreation Committee.

Grateful

By JOSH GODWIN

Minister of Youth and Recreation

When I started at Knollwood in the summer of 2016 there were a number of buzzwords, a list of things with which to familiarize myself to the goings-on of the Knollwood youth ministry, that were thrown at me straight away from those already working with the youth. Some were more logistical, like various passwords, and others were handy acronyms, like SNYG. Yet there was one word that was steadily whispered that summer, one that lingered in the air and on the horizon of the next spring, for which I had to begin preparing immediately: Fundraiser.

I quickly learned not to underestimate the Youth Missions Fundraiser, a lesson that stuck with me from the spring of 2017 to this past weekend.

The Youth Missions Fundraiser is a large-scale undertaking. It is multi-faceted and requires months of preparation to ensure a successful evening. Auction items need to be secured and brought in, food needs to be planned and prepped, childcare must be well-prepared and ready. Having a team of folks with different skills and strengths is vitally important.

That's why I titled this article "Grateful." I am so grateful for the team of folks that have spent the last few months preparing for the 2019 Fundraiser. The members of our Youth Committee, Jon Churn, Pam Stallings, Jackie Jackson, Kristen Jordan, Cathy Larmore, and Sarah Cheney, worked tirelessly in leading the charge for planning this year's fundraiser. A larger team of youth parents and volunteers came alongside this leadership team to find items for the Silent Auction, prepare the food service, arrange entertainment, and advertise the event. Still more came on March 23 to give up an entire Saturday afternoon.

In addition to this outstanding show of support from parents and adult volunteers, our youth took some ownership for their role in this fundraiser. Some donated to the fundraiser, offering their time in babysitting, cleaning, and pet-sitting as well as their artistic talents. Many came on Saturday to offer their hands in serving food, entertaining adults through music, and entertaining children through play.

I wish I had more space to write all your names in this article, but to all of you who gave of your time, talents, and energy to ensure the fundraiser was successful I am so grateful for you. You have helped enable our youth group to serve our community and our world.

To all those who came on March 23 and bought a meal ticket, bid on items, or donated to the Fundraiser we say thank you. Your gifts will facilitate the service opportunities that our youth group takes part in. We are already planning a wide variety of activities this spring and summer. Our congregation is blessed by a youth group that finds joy in serving alongside others in our community; one of our main goals with KBC.ym is helping foster and grow that spirit of responsible, sustainable service. Your gifts are the tangible tools that move that goal to a possible reality. I am grateful.
